DEAR ATTENDEES:

April is always a busy time of year on campus. Today we have had a “double dip” day that recognizes the contributions of others to improving both our campus and our community. The Spirit of Philanthropy Luncheon and the 11th Annual Robert G. Bringle Civic Engagement Showcase and Symposium (CESS) coincide this year to celebrate the generosity, creativity, and collaboration with community partners. CESS is a time for learning about and celebrating the community engaged work of students, faculty, staff, and community partners. A highlight is always the Plater Medallion Reception and Ceremony where we get a glimpse of the amazing graduates, across all disciplines, who are leaving IUPUI better prepared to make a difference through their careers and lives as citizens.

This year, our campus received national distinction for excellence in community engagement from both the Carnegie Foundation and the Corporation for National and Community Service. We simply could not do this work without the community. Many residents have devoted countless hours to developing Quality of Life Plans that spell out, in very clear terms, the goals and action items that need our focus to improve communities. Enclosed you will find brief summaries of two such plans from neighborhoods in close proximity to IUPUI. Some of these ideas require funding, some require creativity, and some require unending dedication to tackle root problems.

IUPUI, through its new Office of Community Engagement, is poised to take a more unified and collective approach to leveraging campus resources to improve neighborhoods in Indianapolis. We welcome your ideas on how we can partner together in this important work. The Center for Service and Learning is ready to work with you to involve college students in educationally meaningful service. Together we are developing civic-minded graduates and professionals who are prepared to work collectively and creatively to achieve the common good.

Julie A. Hatcher
Executive Director, IUPUI Center for Service and Learning
Associate Professor, IUPUI Philanthropic Studies

KEYNOTE: Dr. Greg Lindsey

Dr. Lindsey is a community-engaged scholar who has more than 30 years of experience in environmental and transportation planning and management. He currently is principal investigator for several projects sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Transportation and was named a Scholar in Residence at MnDOT for 2015-16. His current projects focus on efforts to institutionalize non-motorized traffic monitoring. He is the author or co-author of more than 175 academic papers and professional reports. His experience includes more than nine years of service as an academic administrator.

Among other responsibilities, he served as the Interim Dean of the Humphrey School of Public Affairs, where he was responsible for more than 30 faculty, 100 staff, 500 students, and an annual budget of approximately $20 million. He is the recipient of multiple academic and professional awards, including the inaugural recipient of the IUPUI Chancellor’s Faculty Award for Excellence in Civic Engagement, the Distinguished Hoosier award from the Governor of Indiana, and most recently the Center for Transportation Studies’ Research Partnership Award. Prior to joining the faculty of the IU School of Public and Environmental Affairs (SPEA) in 1991, he served as a division chief with the Maryland Department of the Environment and the director of two nonprofit environmental organizations. His work with students through SPEA provided the foundation for the Monon and Cultural Trail systems in Indianapolis. He holds degrees from the Johns Hopkins University (Ph.D., M.A.), Northeastern Illinois University (M.A.), and the University of Illinois (BURP).

Symposium Presentation Formats

Pecha Kucha
Japanese for the “sound of conversation” or “chit chat,” is a presentation style in which 20 slides are shown for 20 seconds each (6 minutes and 40 seconds in total). It is not designed to provide in-depth analysis of an issue. Rather, the format keeps presentations concise and fast-paced, and allows more time for audience discussion of the topic.

B.O.B (Bursts of Brilliance) Talk
Dr. Robert G. Bringle, affectionately known as Bob, is the inspiration for our “B.O.B. (Bursts of Brilliance) Talks”. They are formatted similar to the TED Talk model in which each presenter shares a short story/commentary that inspires or challenges our audience's thinking. Individual B.O.B. talks last 13 minutes. Stories shared in this format should reflect the individual's genuine experience with and relevant knowledge of their selected topic. Presenters should also demonstrate the relevance of their topic/story to the conference theme. The purpose of these presentations is to provide dynamic, quick paced overviews and discussions about provocative topics/experiences in our field.

Executive Director, IUPUI Center for Service and Learning
Lorrie A. Brown
Associate Director, IUPUI Center for Service and Learning
ROBERT G. BRINGLE
Senior Scholar, IUPUI Center for Service and Learning
Professor Emeritus, Psychology and Philanthropic Studies

Dr. Robert Bringle is the Kulylych/Cline Visiting Distinguished Professor of Psychology in Appalachian State University’s Wiley F. Smith Department of Psychology. Dr. Bringle is an internationally known leader in the field of service learning. He left a lasting impact at Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis (IUPUI) where he was a Chancellor’s Professor of Psychology and the Executive Director of the IUPUI Center for Service and Learning for 15 years. In addition to his expertise in service learning, Dr. Bringle is a renowned scholar of social psychology with interests in relationships and jealousy. At IUPUI, he developed the Social Psychological Undergraduate Research project, a National Science Foundation supported summer research program designed to provide undergraduate students with research opportunities that would prepare them for graduate-level training in psychology.

MONICA A. MEDINA
Clinical Associate Professor, IU School of Education
2014 Chancellor’s Faculty Award for Excellence in Civic Engagement

Dr. Monica A. Medina is an IU School of Education (IU SoE) Clinical Associate Professor of curriculum and instruction and the Interim Director of the Center for Urban and Multicultural Education. Her research centers on urban school reform methods; full service community schools as a school reform method; and the development of University assisted schools, leading the IU SoE involvement in George Washington Community High School. Dr. Medina serves on the boards of the Health Foundation of Greater Indianapolis and Concord Neighborhood Center. She was the Chair of La Plaza Board of Directors and a founding member of the Indiana Latino Institute. In addition to the IUPUI Chancellor’s Award for Excellence in Civic Engagement, Dr. Medina has received numerous leadership awards including the IU Latino Alumni Association’s Distinguished Alumni Award, Latina Educator of the Year Award, and one of the 125 Neighborhood Leaders Award.
CONCORD NEIGHBORHOOD CENTER
2014 Chancellor’s Community Award for Excellence in Civic Engagement

As the oldest and longest-running neighborhood center association in Indianapolis, Concord Neighborhood Center offers south side Indianapolis families and individuals of all ages a one-stop source for social services, children’s programs, educational opportunities, health and fitness information, recreational activities, and cooperative programs with other agencies. Concord takes pride in their ability to positively impact the lives of those they serve from the south side neighborhood and all those interested in experiencing life to its fullest.

IAN S. McINTOSH
Director of International Partnerships, Office of International Affairs
2014 Nan Bohan Community Engagement Staff Award

Dr Ian S. McIntosh is the Director of International Partnerships at IUPUI and Associate Director of the Confucius Institute in Indianapolis. He is the former Managing Director of Cultural Survival, one of the world’s foremost organizations promoting the rights, voices, and visions of indigenous peoples. His great passion is Aboriginal Australia where he worked hand in hand with indigenous peoples in both Queensland and the Northern Territory, including seven years at Galiwin’ku, Elcho Island, in the 1980s and 1990s. Dr. McIntosh has written two books and over 100 articles on indigenous themes, including human rights, social justice, and reconciliation. He is also a co-founder of Past Masters International, a multidisciplinary team of history and heritage specialists searching the Indian Ocean for clues relating to the discovery of the medieval Kilwa Sultanate (Tanzania, Africa) in northern Australia.
During the past year, the Center for Service and Learning supported programs to expand and deepen faculty and staff involvement in community-engaged teaching, research, and scholarship.

ALTERNATIVE SPRING BREAK ADVISORS

Advisors work closely with the Alternative Spring Break Student Trip Leaders to prepare and implement successful service experiences. Their role is to provide guidance, mentoring, and knowledge to the leaders and participants in a way that empowers students to connect the social issue the trip is focusing on to their own worlds.

Ashley Hope Burelison, IU Health and Life Sciences Advising Center

The Center for Service and Learning offers scholarship support to faculty, academic staff, and departments to strengthen our collective capacity to create actionable knowledge, deepen student learning, and contribute to positive community outcomes.

Faculty and staff recipients serve as mentors to qualified graduate and undergraduate students that they identify as the scholarship recipient. The mentoring relationships contribute vital human resources to sustain healthy community-university partnerships in teaching, research, creative activity, and public service. These learning partnerships also create deep learning opportunities for students. This year the following faculty and staff received funding through the SLA Scholarship program:

The Sam H. Jones Community Service Scholarship Program is a distinctive feature of the campus commitment to civic engagement. Created in 1994 through the revenue from the sale of IUPUI license plates, the program is now supported through campus scholarship funds and private donations. Sam H. Jones Service Scholars are engaged in service learning courses and ongoing service within the community as a part of the scholarship program.

Sam H. Jones was a dedicated public servant who provided dynamic leadership as the Chief Executive Officer of the Indianapolis Urban League. This scholarship program at IUPUI honors his legacy as a community leader whose vision and dedication improved the quality of life in central Indiana.

2014-2015 SAM H. JONES COMMUNITY SERVICE SCHOLARS

Alternative Break Trip Leaders

Scholars in this program lead and supervise teams of students on alternative break trips. These trips allow students to visit other cities and states to engage in volunteer projects and deepen reflection on social issues that affect those communities. Participants experience and discuss the causes of social issues while learning how to become active citizens to address those same social issues within their own communities.

Bridget Barbara      Sara Camps      Heather Rogers
Emily Black          Charishma Kasipathi  Kailey Stancombe
America Reads*America Counts Team Leaders

Scholars in this program receive training and support to lead a team of IUPUI students who provide tutoring to youth free of charge at local schools and community centers.

Jonathan Harmon        Justin Kiesel        Olivia Martinez
Davionna Herrod         Robert Killion       Sterling Metzger

Civic Engagement Project Assistants

Scholars in this program serve as the initial point of contact at the CSL to welcome and direct visitors, and play an integral role in the support of CSL’s civic engagement mission. Assistants aid in various tasks ranging from scholarship logistics, CSL events, and data and research projects.

Natalie Boling          Shelbi Grow          Hamza Nawaz
Conner Chamberlin

Community Partner Scholars

Community Partner Scholars engage in activities to assist community partners in meeting their mission while also serving as student advocates for civic engagement on the IUPUI campus.

Emma Fletcher          Marissa Huth         Claudia Montes-Salinas

Community Service Leaders

Scholars in this program are students who have been previous participants within the Sam H. Jones Community Service Scholarship Program. They serve as mentors and event facilitators as they create opportunities for students, faculty, and staff to be engaged in the community.

Corinne Blackburn  Skye Leasure  Levi Smith
Seth Bollier  Marion Muthama  Christian Tyler
Brandon Coats  Kayla Najera  Andre Zhang Sonera
Alyssa Flynn  Allison Rager
Lauren Kenney  Marvin Shamuyarira

Community Service Scholars

Scholars in this program enroll in a service learning course, “Topics in Philanthropy”, coordinate the Cesar Chavez Day of Service, attend monthly service-leadership seminars, and participate in several service events throughout the year. These scholars also contribute time each week at a local community partner site, completing a variety of projects ranging from lesson planning to grant writing.

The Success of our Students

• Findings from 2013-2014 indicate an estimated 8,570 students contributed more than 303,060 hours of service to the community.

• In 2013-2014, Sam H. Jones (SHJ) Community Service Scholarships were awarded to 209 students (159 undergraduates, 50 graduate students) who contributed nearly $1 million in service hours to support the civic engagement mission of the campus (43,668 hours of service x national volunteer rate of $21.56/hour).

• The Service Learning Assistant (SLA) scholarship program supported 68 faculty and staff to advance their community-engaged teaching, research, and scholarship (e.g., service learning courses, community-based research, external professional service, partnerships).

• The Fall Involvement Expo had a record number of 5,200 students participate.

• In 2013-2014, 79 students and faculty/staff participated in one of nine domestic alternative break trips (e.g., St. Louis, Philadelphia, Detroit).

Advances in Health and Life Sciences

• The CSL sponsored a faculty member (Danielle Perkins, School of Nursing) and a community partner (Lisa Cole, IU Health and Playworks Indiana) to attend the Community-Campus Partnerships for Health Conference in Chicago, Illinois.

• Through the Dissemination Grant Program, the CSL awarded $2,750 to 4 faculty from four schools (Law, Occupational Therapy, Nursing, and Social Work) to disseminate community-engaged scholarship related to enhancing health and well-being of the community.

• In 2013-2014, schools most predominantly associated with health-related professions (Nursing, Social Work, Health & Rehabilitation, Physical Education, Public Health, Dentistry, and Medicine) offered 32% of the community-based learning course sections (n=169) which has an estimated impact of $4.8 million.
Contributions to the Well-Being of Citizens of Indianapolis, the State of Indiana, and Beyond

- A total of 6,785 students, faculty, and staff participated in community service events co-sponsored by the CSL and Office of Student Involvement. The estimated economic impact of this service to the community is over $520,000 (more than 24,162 hours of service x national volunteer rate of $21.56/hour).

- Based upon national volunteer and pro bono rates, IUPUI students contributed approximately $12.7 million in service hours in the community through community-based learning courses.

- In 2013-2014, the CSL awarded $19,100 to faculty and staff to support community-engaged work or to sponsor campus initiatives related to faculty development (e.g., Critical Thinking Symposium, Preparing Future Faculty Forum).

Collaboration and Best Practice

- IUPUI was selected as one of 73 campuses to participate in National Association of Student Personnel Administrators’ (NASPA) LEAD Initiative on Civic Learning and Democratic Engagement.

- The CSL staff conducted a total of 247 consultations with faculty, staff, and community partners to discuss challenges and opportunities related to community engagement and partnerships.

- Faculty and staff from IUPUI authored or co-authored 40 articles or scholarly publications and conducted 79 presentations related to their service learning and community engagement activities.

- IUPUI was recognized on the 2013 President’s Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll by the Corporation for National and Community Service.

- The 6th annual Connecting Campuses with Communities had 45 participants representing 33 institutions in attendance.

- The U.S. News and World Report, in their 2013 editions of America’s Best Colleges, listed IUPUI as “one of the top universities in the nation with outstanding service learning programs”.
