Reflective Questions – After Creating the Digital Story

1. How many times did you edit or revise the script for your digital story?
   a. What were the types of things you were editing and why?
2. Who did you ask to give you feedback on your script and what suggestions did they provide?
3. Did you create a storyboard (A storyboard is a layout of your plans for what the digital story will look like and is created once you have your script completed. The purpose of a storyboard is to illustrate and clarify what words are to be associated with specific images.)? Y/N
   a. In what ways did you find it helpful?
4. Think about the process of gathering images and music for your digital story. Consider the following aspects of this stage of the process and share your experience with gathering images and music and how your experiences this semester have influenced how you thought about these.
   a. Ability to be creative
   b. Considerations given to intellectual property and fair use laws
   c. Selection of one image over another; the meaning that is conveyed
   d. Challenges
   e. Rewarding aspects
5. Discuss the amount of time you spent on various stages of the process (i.e., thinking about your digital story, developing the script, gathering images and music, creating/producing the final product). Evaluate the amount of time you spent and how that may have influenced the final product. What might you have done differently and why?
6. Would you share your digital story with others? Why or why not?